

Guidelines for District International Camps

Below are some guidelines agreed upon by the District Executive Committee to consider when planning future camps. These guidelines are not set in stone but are there to help create an event which can give an international opportunity to as many people in the district as possible and be a memorable experience offering Enjoyment, Adventure and Excitement for all.

- 1). The cost for each participant should, when possible, not exceed £495*
- 2). Where possible accommodation should be on Scouting sites to provide the experience of meeting new people and getting the most out of new places and new experiences.
- 3) The destination should provide a purpose which will provide a gain for young people as recommended by the Scout Association guidelines, and therefore should be chosen on these merits rather than the campsite alone. It is acceptable to go back to previous destinations.

*This is of course subject to change over time due to inflation.
